Family Tree Receives $35,000 From Post-News Season To Share Fund

Wheat Ridge, CO – During a reception held on April 21, Family Tree received $35,000 from the Post-News Season to Share Fund, a fund of the McCormick Tribune Foundation.

The 2007-2008 Post- News Season to Share campaign raised a record-breaking $2,197,500 that was distributed to 65 Denver-area nonprofit agencies. For 15 years, Post-News Season to Share has raised charitable donations that are matched and disbursed to local nonprofit organizations serving children as well as those who are homeless, hungry or in need of medical care. Funds are raised through reader, community and corporate donations, and each dollar donated is matched with 50 cents by the McCormick Tribune Foundation. The Denver Newspaper Agency and the McCormick Tribune Foundation pay all administrative costs allowing 100 percent of donations to go directly to charitable organizations. In total over the past 15 years, the campaign has raised and distributed over $21,000,000.

Family Tree will use its Post-News Season to Share funding to support its Women In Crisis program. Women In Crisis provides emergency shelter and support services for women and children who have fled their homes because of domestic violence. Its purpose is to keep survivors of domestic violence safe through provision of a continuum of services that are client-centered and culturally sensitive. Family Tree provides tools that are vital to families trying to understand and break the cycle of domestic violence and provides opportunities to families to learn the skills and resources necessary to live violent free lives.

Since 1976, Family Tree has provided a continuum of services and shelters to families and youth of metro Denver to overcome child abuse, domestic violence and homelessness.
